

Community Garden Rosenet Pages Screenshots

The screenshot shows the home page of the Madison Community Garden website. The browser address bar displays www.rosenet.org/980/Madison-Community-Garden. The page features a dark red header with the text "The Borough of MADISON New Jersey" and navigation links for "En Español", "How Do L...", "Government", "Departments", and "About Madison". A search bar is located in the top right corner. A left-hand navigation menu lists various categories: "Madison Community Garden", "About the Garden & Applications", "Pollinator Gardens", "Beekeeping Club", "Composting", "Maintenance & Volunteers", "For the Community", "History & Thanks", and "Find a Community Garden Near You". The main content area includes a breadcrumb trail: "Home > Government > Boards & Commissions > Community Garden Advisory Committee > Madison Community Garden". Below this, the heading "Madison Community Garden" is followed by a "News & Alerts" section with two announcements: "2019 New Plot applications are now available! Please visit the Applications page." and "2019 Bee Club applications are now available! Please visit the Bee Club page." A large photograph of a community garden plot with various plants and raised beds is shown below the text.

This screenshot displays the "For the Community" page on the website. The breadcrumb trail is "Home > Government > Boards & Commissions > Community Garden Advisory Committee > For the Community". The page title is "For the Community" with a sub-heading "How to get involved". The text describes the garden's history, stating it was established in 2011 and first offered plots in 2012. It mentions 84 plots, including 3 hoop house plots and 3 Master Gardener plots. It also notes the presence of a tree nursery and an animal-resistant fence. A public welcome message follows, providing contact information for a personalized tour: "For a personalized tour, contact us at MadisonNCommunityGarden@gmail.com with the words 'MCG Tour' in the subject line, and one of the Advisory Committee members will be in touch to arrange a tour." The page also invites residents to attend events like the Harvest Festival. A "Community Outreach" section states the garden's mission and lists projects, including a "Tree Nursery" located on the south side of the garden, which is tended by volunteers like the Madison Boy Scouts.